

WHAT IS A TRADE UNION?

Trade unions are groups of workers organised together to win a better deal at work...

WHAT IS A TRADE UNION?

Union members are organised in 'branches', these are groups of workers in the same area or doing the same sort of work.

Your union branch gets together to talk about what's going on in your area and the wider industry and to identify and organise around issues that matter to members, like low pay, long hours, flexible working, unfair treatment, equality, health & safety, training, or any other way of improving working lives.

When workers band together we achieve more than we can alone.

If you work in a non-performing role in the creative industries, then Bectu is the trade union for you.

Whether you're a freelancer, staff, or on a short-term contract, Bectu can advise and support you with issues at work, including disputes, rates, contracts, bullying, sexual harassment, getting paid, and much more.

Bectu is a sector of Prospect, a campaigning trade union 150,000 strong which is built, owned, and democratically run by members.

We employ expert staff who help negotiate, defend and improve your rights at work and working conditions, to make the creative industries a better place to work.
